Attendance of museums and galleries.
I would like to describe (and compare) the chart which depicts the attendance of five English museums and galleries in 2013, 2015 and 2017.

The chart shows that according to the results of the research in 2017, British Museum is the most popular museum of all presented in the table, as it has 5.6 million people attending. National Gallery goes next with the number of visitors being about 4.7 million and the third one is Tate Gallery which was visited by 2.2 million of people. Natural Museum and Science Museum are at the bottom of the rate with 1.9 million and 1.6 million people attendance attending.

British Museum, National Gallery and Tate Gallery had more visitors in 2017 than they did in 2013. Speaking about Natural History Museum and Science Museum, they have a substantial decrease in the number of visitors.

I strongly believe, that the attendance of museums and galleries should be increased. I would respectively recommend the museum boards of directors to draw on people's attention by (appealing) (advertisement. Moreover) the advertisement which can appeal people to visit museums. Moreover, new entertaining programmes can encourage people to spend their free time at the gallery.

To sum up, only three of five described museums and galleries have a slight rise in the number of visitors, while two others, have a, unfortunately, have a decline.
